MUCH WORK TO BE DONE.

The registrars for each precinct will have a vast amount of work to do in a hurry, and the instructions sent out by the Government explain in detail the process, even to telling how to keep registration cards in the proper piles and how best to tabulate the summaries from them. The registrar who fails to study this book of instructions carefully and learn its contents will be in distress at the end of his day's work.

Registration places will be open from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. continuously, and

DAVIS BELL
UNEARTHED

Farm Bell Used 100 Years Ago In Good Preservation.

FOUND DEEP IN SOIL By Workmen Excavating For The Davis Obelisk.

Workmen excavating for the foundation of the Jefferson Davis obelisk at Fairview a few days ago unearthed, three feet from the surface, a small size farm bell in a good state of preservation. It is about the size of a water bucket and contained clapper and all. When cleaned up, it gave forth a clear ring and apparently is as good as when new.

It will be preserved as a valuable relic of 100 years ago. The father of Jefferson Davis owned several hundred acres of land, and this bell was in all probability used as his farm bell.

Contractor Gregg has it and will show it to those interested. The concrete foundation is now being put in and work on the obelisk is progressing nicely.

UNION COUNTY FAIR.

V. L. Spaulding, editor of the Uniontown Telegram, speaking of the Union County Fair eulogizes it as follows:

"We are surely going to have a real fair this year, for Union county was never so prosperous as now. Everybody has money and all are happy, and they are not going to let the war stop the fair or interfere with business or farming.

"Corn planting is on in earnest and the acreage is greater than ever before. Tobacco acreage will be considerably reduced; gardens are bigger and better than ever known, and if fortune smiles on Union county and sends a good season there will be enough foodstuff raised here to feed a considerable portion of the world.

"There are several horses at the fair grounds now in training and more are coming all the time. Next to Henderson, Uniontown has the best fair in Western Kentucky."

He ought to come to Christian county and see a few real crops growing and then this fall he might come and see a real fair, second only to the State fair—the Pennyroyal Fair at Hopkinsville.

FOR SALE.

Rubber tired surrey, in good condition, set harness and good gentle family horse. Will work anywhere. Will sell outfit for $100 if taken at once.

GEO. W. SHADON, at C. R. Clark & Co's.

the Provost Marshal General makes it plain that the men who attain the age of 21 on or before June 5, but are not 31 on or before that date, are personally responsible for registering, although every city, State and national peace officer is bound to report any absentees.

Provisions are made for those who are away from home. They can secure registration cards at the office of the County Clerk in whatever county they may be; but they must see to mailing it to the registrar of their home precincts in care of the Clerk of their respective counties and this registration blank, properly filled out, must be mailed in time to be filed with the registrar by June 5. Consequently it is urged upon absentees liable for registration to get their cards filled out without delay. Sick persons may send someone to the Clerk's office, and the Clerk may deputize that person to register the sick man.

Guards Make Fatal Mistake.

Earlington, Ky., May 22.—As a result of mistaking a preparation for rheumatism, containing oil of wintergreen for lemon extract, Robert McKinney, of Dawson Springs, is dead and Cliff Meadows, of the same town, is dangerously ill. In company with Dewey Fullerton, of Union City, Tenn., McKinney and Meadows purchased some grape juice and flavored it with what they thought was lemon extract, later drinking the mixture. Yellow Bronze Turkeys.

Esq. W. L. Parker, who has raised pure bronze turkeys for many years, is puzzled over a recent hatch of 15 young turkeys, 7 of them yellow. He says there has been no chance for a cross, as there are no yellow turkeys within one and a half miles of his place.

Hawkins, of the Hopkinsville police force, and Miss Virginia Rozalie Weston were married May 18th at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Guy Dyer, at Evansville, Ind., by Rev. Father Ryves. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Minnie L. Weston and was until her marriage connected with the Anderson store. The groom is an employe of the L. & N. Railroad.

Smash The Austrian Line Along a Front of Ten Miles Near Trieste.

300 OFFICERS TAKEN

Teutons Taken Wholly By Surprise By Swift Swoop of Latin Troops.

On a front of nearly ten miles on the Carso plateau the Italian troops have smashed the Austrian line hard and taken various positions of the town of Castagnavizza to the head of the gulf of Trieste. In their renewal of the offensive the Italians received valuable aid from some of the nine British batteries that have hauled their big guns down to the Isonzo front to aid in the efforts aimed at the conquest of Trieste, Austria's big seaport on the Adriatic.

Not alone were the Italians successful in capturing numerous points of vantage but more than 9,000 Austrian prisoners including 300 officers were taken. The Austrians are declared to have been taken completely by surprise by the sudden onslaught of the Italians.

The advance brings them to within ten miles of Trieste. On none of the other fronts has there been an engagement of any great importance. The Russian situation is improving.

BRITISH TRANSPORT SUNK.

German submarines have sent to the bottom two more big steamships and caused the loss of 458 lives. The vessels were the British steamer Transylvania, acting as a transport, which was sunk in the Mediterranean, and the French steamer Sontay, with passengers from Saloniki to Marseilles.

ONE VICTIM IN ZEPPELIN RAID.

Under cover of the clouds, four German airships, presumably Zeppelins have carried out a bombing raid on the eastern counties of England. Only one person was killed and the damage done by the explosives was slight.

IN OLD QUARTERS.

Pythians Will Have Big Time Next Thursday Night.

A big treat is in store for Pythians at their meeting next Thursday night. Strawberries, ice cream, cake, oratory and a big time generally is the program for that night. Evergreen lodge will hold its first meeting back in its old quarters in the Odd Fellows lodge room, and it is desired that a large crowd be on hand at this first meeting in their new quarters. Every member is expected. The regular semi-annual election of officers will also be held.

Eli Parsons, a negro, confessed murderer of Antoinette Rappal, several weeks ago, was burned to death
near the scene of the crime at Memphis. A mob, estimated at from 2,000 to 3,000, saw the death of the negro.
In preparation for burning, the body
was soaked in oil and afterwards suspended in midair from the limb of a nearby tree. A torch was then applied and the body burned fiercely
until the scorched flesh of the negro fell to the ground.

Senator Ollie M. James has received his first turn-down by the administration in the appointment of Percy Haly
to the position of Collector, held by his friend Ben Marshall, of Frankfort. Senator Beckham's faction of the Democratic party has been managed by Percy Haly for seventeen years, and it is quite natural that he should want to reward him and incidentally have him in a position to "play politics." Senator Beckham claimed the right to remove Marshall as an obnoxious political enemy and handed Senator James one by providing him with the same kind of handicap.

LESSON IN DIPLOMACY

By HARRISON CHASE.

"I think that fighting is the most horrible thing in the world," Doris Atkinson announced to Tom Stanton. "I believe in the peace-at-any-price polity."

Stanton smiled ever so slightly at her words.

"Don't you think that sometimes it is absolutely necessary to fight?" he asked.

"No." She shook her head decisively.
"There is no reason in the world
why men should fight one another."

"But supposing a tramp or some rough character should meet me on a country road and demand my money.
Wouldn't it be a wise thing if I were in a position to protect myself?"

"You could probably get better results by being kind to him," she retorted. "You could ask him to tell you how he sank so low as to be a common thief?"

"Yes, I could." He smiled grimly.
"But I have a faint idea that he would be more interested in taking my purse
than he would in answering questions."

"It's all in the way you do it," she said wisely. "I have yet to meet a man I couldn't handle by diplomacy."

The heavy roadster glided rhythmically along the even road. Over the rim of a distant hill, glorious colors
streaked the sky, signifying the end of a perfect day. Tom blessed the good fortune that had permitted him to take Doris home in his car. The long drive to Glenwood was almost over; but Doris had promised to let him see her again—and he was satisfied.

For a time they drove along without speaking. Gradually the sunset faded until a single star peeped out from the darkening sky. Tom switched on the lights.

"Well," he said finally, "I was heavyweight boxing champion in college." He stole a glance at her. "I hope that doesn't make you like me any the less."

"I never said that I liked you at all," she parried. "But I hope that you'll forget your boxing lessons when you're with me."

The road sloped suddenly into a deep valley. On both sides stretched a wood through which a noisy stream rippled. The glaring light from the car blazed a path for them. The way was deserted. But suddenly, when they were still about fifty yards from the bridge, a man stepped out from the shadow of the trees to the right.
Planting himself squarely in the middle of the road, he held up his hand.
Stanton threw on the brakes and came to a halt.

"What is it?" he asked.

"Get out."

The stranger spoke harshly. He was a large man with full beard and evil eyes. He spoke determinedly. His voice was menacing. Stanton refused to permit himself to become alarmed.

"What do you want?" he asked.

"Never mind what I want. You get out of that car." The stranger reached into his pocket and drew forth something which glittered in the light from the car.

Doris seized her companion's arm.

"We might just as well get out," he said. "The man is armed."

He stepped from the car, the girl
following. Then he faced the tramp.

"What next?" he asked.

"Throw up your hands!"

"And if I refuse?"

"I'll shoot you."

The stranger raised his arm threateningly, and again the glint of steel flashed. Stanton, his eyes following every move of the man before him,
suddenly smiled.

"Shoot!" he said.

"Oh, don't!" Doris turned fear-filled eyes to her companion.

Stanton spoke without taking his eyes from the man.

"Do you mind stepping aside for a moment, Miss Atkinson?" he asked. "I can take care of this fellow easily."

He spoke confidently, and the girl, sensing his confidence, stepped to the side of the car.

"Put your hands up, I tell you." The tramp advanced threateningly.

Then something happened. A hard fist struck his hand and knocked it upward; something which felt like a club slammed into his face. With a groan the would-be robber sank to the ground.

Stanton turned to the girl.

"He'll be all right in a few minutes,"
he announced. "Supposing we drive
on before he wakes up."

In another moment they were gliding serenely down the road. The lights of Glenwood gleamed in the near distance. Stanton slowed down the car perceptibly; he was loath to complete the trip. Suddenly he glanced at the girl, an amused light in his eyes.

"Do you still believe in peace at any price?" he asked.

"No," she answered frankly. "I don't. In the last ten minutes I've become an ardent advocate of preparedness."

paper Syndicate.)

The Worst I am.

"The worst of all I am," said the lecturer, "is pugilism."

"Pardon me, my friend," rejoined a man who had just entered the hall on crutches, "but I know a worse one than that."

"What is it, sir?" queried the lecturer.

"Rheumatism," answered the other.

DIZZY SPELLS

Relieved After Taking Two Bottles
Of Cardui, Says Tennessee
Lady.

Whitwell, Tenn.—Mrs. G. P. Cartwright, of this place, writes: "About four years ago the dizzy spells got so bad that when I would start to walk
I would just pretty near fall. I wasn't past doing my work, but was very much run-down."

I told my husband I thought Cardui
would help me, as a lady who lived next door to me had taken a great deal, and told me to try it. This was when we were living in Kentucky.

My husband got me a bottle and I took it according to directions. It helped me so much that he went back and got me another bottle. I got a whole lot better and just quit taking
it. I got over the dizzy spells. I took no other medicine at that time nor since for this trouble. No, I've never regretted taking Cardui.

I felt just fine when I finished the second bottle.

Purely vegetable, mild and gentle
in its action, Cardui, the woman's tonic, may be the very medicine you need. If you suffer from symptoms of female troubles, give Cardui a trial.

Old English Physicians.

The England of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries was a rich field

extended in many directions. Some were very serious-minded persons who did much to advance medical science—
others were famed for their adroit ways of amassing wealth. If England

also had such practitioners as gruff

them.

Crows do the farmer about as much monograph on the relation of crows to man. The essential conclusions are that crows are about equally bene-

so wary and sagacious as not to need legal protection. Lack of this, while not endangering the species, will permit farmers to protect their crops or other property whenever necessary.

How Does It Benefit Me?

Business men believe in the Federal Reserve System, but many of them know little about it or how it operates.

To tell our community how the system benefits
them and how they can contribute directly to its support we have prepared a short pamphlet.

If you haven't seen it
we shall be glad either to mail it to you or give it to you if you will call.

BUILD SHIPS ATOP MOUNTAIN

People of Dutch Island of Saba Construct Vessels and Lower Them
Into Water With Ropes.

About forty miles to the eastward
of our newly purchased island of St.
Croix in the Danish West Indies
lies the little Dutch island of Saba,
which is one of the most isolated and peculiar little communities in the world. There are no regular sailings to Saba—the trip is made in a sailboat from St. Croix or from one of the larger Dutch islands to the south.

At first glance, Saba looks like an uninhabited island. It is an almost perfect volcanic cone rising 1,000 feet from the blue Caribbean. There is no harbor anywhere on its circumference. Landing is made on a tiny strip of stony shingle, guarded by a wooden hut that serves as the Dutch customhouse. The villagers live in the cup of the dead volcano, in a little grassy valley 1,000 feet above
the sea, reached by a flight of more than 800 stone steps. Up these steps they carry on their heads all the necessaries of life, and down the steps they lower their products—including the ships for whose building
Saba is famous.

All over the West Indies you will hear of Saba-built sloops and schooners, noted for their staunchness and their sailing properties. These vessels are built on an island which has not the trace of a harbor—they are built in a valley far above the sea
and lowered into the water with ropes.

PROPHECIES LIVED LONG.

Mrs. Shipton, or, as she was commonly called, when she grew old,
Mother Shipton, lived in Yorkshire, England, nearly 400 years ago. That was a superstitious age and she had the reputation of being a witch. She claimed to have the gift of prophecy
and some of her predictions had credulous believers long after she was dead. She died in 1561 and as late as 1881 many persons in the country districts of England were so impressed by a prediction of hers
that the world would come to an end
that year that they left their houses
and spent whole nights in the fields praying.

Paw—You'd better take a walk,
young man, while the going is good.

Potatoes Best Cooked in Skins.

Approximately 20 per cent of each potato pared by ordinary household methods is lost in the process. The loss includes much and sometimes all of the portion of the tuber containing important soluble salts. Potatoes that are boiled and baked in their skins
lose practically none of their food value.

Famous Dive.

A Greek sponge-fisherman's dive to lieved to be the world's record for a

Megaphone Resembles Ram's Horn.

A Boston physician has invented a megaphone which is constructed on the theory that the original horn—the ram's horn—was and still is technically correct for sound reproduction. His megaphone is curved instead of the straight funnel-like shape of most other instruments, and one of the most interesting and useful features about it is the ability to use it without having to interfere with one's vision.

Only Right Form of Distinction.

The painter should grind his own
dors; the architect work in the major's yard with his men; the master manufacturer himself a more skillful operator than any man in his mills,
and the distinction between one man
and another be only in experience and skill and the authority and wealth
which these must naturally and justly obtain.—Ruskin.

GOOD ADVICE FROM AMERICAN

Frenchman Urged to Attend Duke of Wellington's Burial But to Draw Line at Resurrection.

"Germany feels toward England
as the French felt toward the duke of Wellington after the downfall of Napoleon."

The speaker was Historian Oberholtzer Butler of Chicago. He went on:

"Even when the duke of Wellington came to die, the French hatred
of him still smoldered, so much so that the French ambassador hesi-tated to accept the British government's invitation to the funeral."

"How can I go to the funeral,"
the ambassador asked, "of the man who did so much harm to my country?"

"But the American ambassador
said:

"Hold on there, friend! They're burying the duke, are they not?"

"Yes, naturally."

"Well, then, accept and go. Always accept an invitation to the duke's burial, but, if you're ever invited to his resurrection, decline
with thanks."

WILL ENGRAVE DIAMONDS.

Bordinet, a well-known French jeweler, has invented tools with which to engrave diamonds. One of the beautiful results obtained by Bordinet is a diamond cut in the form of a ring, polished on the inside, and delicately engraved on the outside. Another attractive cutting is in the form of a fish. Some diamonds have armorial bearings engraved upon them. Within the last few years, it has been possible to bore diamonds, so that they may be strung with other stones.

Institutional Treatment of Tuberculosis

means that the patient is given constant attention; that the regime which is found to be best adapted to the case is rightly adhered to;
that a resident physician is at hand all of the time, studying the case and adapting the treatment to it; that nursing service is the best.
All of these things mean improvement, greater comfort and possible recovery. Hazelwood is operated without profit by the Louisville

NERVOUSNESS AND BLUES

Symptoms of More Serious Sickness.

Washington Park, Ill.—"I am the mother of four children and have suffered with female trouble, backache, nervous spells and the blues. My children's loud talking and romping would make me so nervous I could just tear everything to pieces and I would ache all over and feel so sick that I would not want anyone to talk to me at times. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills restored me to health and I want to thank you for the good they have done me. I have had quite a bit of trouble and worry but it does not affect my youthful looks. My friends say 'Why do you look so young and well?' I owe it all to the Lydia E. Pinkham remedies."—Mrs. ROBT. STOPIEL, Sage Avenue, Washington Park, Illinois.

If you have any symptom about which you would like to know write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for helpful advice given free of charge.

RIGID EXAMINATION FOR TUBERCULOSIS

Dr. J. H. Elliott, of Toronto, who has had charge of the tubercular soldiers returned from the war front to Canada, said before the meeting of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, which met in Cincinnati last week, that the most rigid examination of recruits should be made for the disease, and none accepted for the army who had even a slight tendency to the disease, as the stress and griefs of war would develop it very quickly. As is known, when France hurriedly mobilized her army, very little attention was paid to the examination for tuberculosis and the result is that fully 150,000 soldiers have been invalided home with the disease to further spread it, unless the utmost caution is observed. He also gave it as his opinion that before the war is over 500,000 soldiers would become incapacitated from the disease. England has profited much by France's sad experience and rejected all who showed any disposition to consumption, and her soldiers who have taken the disease are comparatively few in number compared with those of France. He urged that America also learn from the experience and observe the greatest care in the examination of recruits by the most expert physicians obtainable. The Kentucky Tuberculosis Commission, with Dr. W. L. Heizer as Executive Secretary at Frankfort, is now engaged in taking a full survey of the State with a view of procuring experts in tuberculosis to see that no man with tendency to the disease is accepted for the army, to become when it is developed a tax on its resources and a menace to his comrades.

The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, in session last week in Cincinnati, went on record of condemnation of alleged consumptive cures as absolutely harmful and often productive of serious results. The advice is to take no medicine but that prescribed by a reputable physician, observe the utmost cleanliness and sanitary requirements, breathe plenty of fresh air, eat well cooked, nourishing food, avoid all dissipation and use of alcoholic liquors, maintain cheerfulness and rest. This will be found to work wonders for improvement and often a permanent cure. The Tuberculosis Commission, with headquarters at Frankfort, is prosecuting a vigorous campaign for the prevention and cure of tuberculosis, and Dr. W. L. Heizer, Executive Secretary, will gladly furnish any information when requested.

In the ten years fight on the disease by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, assisted by its auxiliaries in the States, the death rate has been reduced from 200.7 per 100,000 to 146.8. The number of sanatoria has increased more than 450, clinics from 20 to 1,400 and tuberculosis agencies from 156 to more than 3,000.

The Kentucky Tuberculosis Commission is doing all it can with its limited resources to aid in the great work of research and education. Write to Dr. W. L. Heizer, Executive Secretary, Frankfort, for pamphlets on the care and treatment of the disease, if interested.

THROUGH THE NEEDLE'S EYE

Rich Man Admitted It Was Hard to Keep Money From Petrifying the Feelings.

Sitting at his big desk in the office of the Thornton Manufacturing company, Mr. William Thornton was dictating letters when the name of Rev. Dr. Colton, the minister of the church he attended, was brought in. Mr. Thornton dismissed the stenographer and told the boy to show the clergyman in.

When Doctor Colton came in, Mr. Thornton greeted him cordially, but he secretly wondered what had brought the good doctor there so early in the morning.

"I'm sorry to disturb you at this hour of the day, Mr. Thornton," he said, "but I have just come from the home of a woman whose husband has died, and there's nothing left to bury him with. I'm trying to raise enough to cover the expenses of the funeral. Can you give me $15 toward it?"

William Thornton knit his brows. "Wasn't it less than two weeks ago that I gave you $25 to help pay a hospital bill for someone?" he asked.

"Yes, it was," said Doctor Colton.

"Well, when is this thing going to end, doctor?" he inquired. "One time it is $25 for hospital fees, another time it's $10 for coal, another it's $20 for rent, and now it's $15 for funeral expenses. When are you going to stop coming, doctor?"

Doctor Colton looked him squarely in the eye and answered, "I will stop coming whenever you wish it, William. Do you want me to stop coming when you are simply able to help in such cases?"

Mr. Thornton thought a minute, and then replied warmly, "No, doctor. I don't want you to stop coming. I'd grow as selfish as the devil if you did. Here's the money, and God bless you in the use of it. It's hard to keep money from petrifying your feelings, isn't it? Come again when you need more."—Youth's Companion.

NOT HIS KIND OF A CANNON

Admiral Knew All About One Species, But the Other Was Beyond His Comprehension.

The late Admiral Dewey was very fond of music and when receptions were held at the Dewey home musical entertainment was always provided. Among the admiral's favorite singers was Mrs. Susanne Oldberg of this city and she related an amusing story that reveals the distinguished hero of Manila bay in the light of a wit.

One of the admiral's favorite selections was a duet, called in musical parlance a canon, where one voice is answered in imitation by another throughout the piece. He seemed particularly pleased always when this canon was sung and would unhesitatingly say to Mrs. Oldberg: "Tell me, why is this music called a canon? What a queer name for a piece of music!"

"Wouldn't it be bringing coals to Newcastle for me to try to tell you anything about a canon, admiral?" Mrs. Oldberg would whimsically inquire. To this he would jokingly answer: "No, indeed. I'm afraid that here is a type of canon I know nothing about. My canon is spelled with two n's, you know, and though it sometimes sings and often repeats, it certainly isn't fit for drawing-room use."—Washington Star.

Hen Made Good.

The telegraph messenger at Ashland, Ky., Gerald Tharp, says the Western Union News, is familiar with the principle embodied in Elbert Hubbard's story, "A Message to Garcia," although this will probably be his first intimation that such a story was ever written.

A local confectioner called for a messenger to go out to a farmhouse for two dozen eggs. Gerald was detailed for the errand, which ordinarily would consume thirty minutes. At the end of three hours he returned with the eggs, and was promptly called on the carpet by the manager to explain his long absence from the office. In a round Irish brogue Gerald explained that the farmer had only twenty-three eggs, and he had waited two and one-half hours for a Plymouth Rock hen to lay the other egg.

Limit Reached in Collars.

Augustus was going to a party, and when Augustus appears at a function of this sort he is a wonderful sight to behold. And Augustus was engaged in a collar hunt—a very serious occupation indeed. He had already visited three establishments, but none kept the article for which he hungered. Every depth and shape the shop boasted had been laid before him till the maximum of four inches deep had been reached.

"What! Do you mean to say that you haven't anything taller in the shop?" he asked irritably.

"Sorry, sir," said the assistant, softly, "but our next size is cuffs!"

Ladies, Take Notice!

Imagine the smug self-sufficiency of the feminine mind which considers itself capable of selecting a man's necktie, the most exacting bit of silk in the world! Fancy the facility of such a mind passing judgment on it! Criticize, and with reason, the cut of our clothes and hair; advance theories upon gloves and footwear; but be silent if you cannot commend the neckwear of a man. There you have the artistic culmination of the male. Secure it, and you insult at the same time his judgment, pride and sense of beauty.

How Times Have Changed.

It was raining heavily the other day when one of the uptown public schools was dismissed. In front of the school, waiting for the children, were nurses, mere parents, chauffeurs and relatives, and all of them were burdened with umbrellas, overshoes, raincoats and wraps. As the children came out they were bundled up and hurried away. An old man with a clay pipe upside down thrust between his teeth stood watching the picture while the rain splashed his damp person. "Covering 'em up like plants," he said. "Overshoes, umbrellas and the like. Say, when I was a boy this rain would have been good for us. We did not have any shoes, let alone overshoes, and as for umbrellas, why, we'd punch the kid's eye that would use one. Oh, well," he sighed, philosophically, "times change."—New York Times.

Sensible Rejoinder.

"Don't you think," asked the young man with the long nose, "that Miss Quickstep dresses as much like a man as possible in order to get herself talked about?" "On the supposition that she does," replied the other young man, with a frosty glitter in his eye, "I suggest that we defeat her purpose by not talking about her. Understand?"

Convincing Signs.

Clara—"I don't know what to make of your brother. For three months after we met, he did nothing but write poetry to me." Dora—"Has he stopped that?" "Yes. Since then he has made me some nice presents, but he has even stopped that." "H'm! Let me see, I have it. The household pages of our newspapers have been clipped terribly of late. No doubt he is making a collection of cooking recipes. He's in earnest."

Value of Advertising.
From a capital of $20,000 to $25,000,000 in 12 years through advertising is the record of a St. Louis corporation. The doubter of the virtue of printer's ink properly distributed and of the right quality will find a lot of food for thought in that fact.—St. Louis Star.

Dorr's Rebellion.

Dorr's rebellion was raised many years ago by Thomas W. Dorr, a lawyer of Providence, R. I. An early constitution of Rhode Island affixed a property qualification to the right of suffrage. In 1841, Dorr was elected governor on a free suffrage platform and attempted to seize the state government by force. The attempt ended in his flight, his subsequent arrest and trial and conviction for treason. He was sentenced to imprisonment for life but after a few years' imprisonment was pardoned in 1847. He lived to see Rhode Island with a more liberal Constitution than the one he had fought against, and died in 1854.

Being Respectable.

To be respectable implies a multitude of little observances, from the strict keeping of Sunday down to the careful tying of a cravat.—Victor Hugo.

Went Right to the Point.

Allen was two and a half years old when he was invited to his first party. When his mother told him he was invited to a party he asked: "Mother, what is a party?" His mother answered: "At a party you go over to the house of your little friend with the other children who are asked, play games, and have a nice time, get something to eat and come home." The only part of the definition of a party that made an impression on Allen's little mind was the "something to eat." When the appointed day for the party came he marched up to the house of his playmate, knocked at the door and, upon being ushered in, said: "I came to your party; I would like something to eat."

Great Musicians Loved Silence.

Among musicians taciturnity has always been prevalent, both Beethoven and Mozart being renowned among their friends for their long periods of silent thought and their dislike to the "chatter" of general conversation. Even Chopin, whose music would lead one to suppose him a fond of people, was said to "love silence even better than music," while Wagner, except when discussing musical matters, was silent even to the point of actual rudeness.

Speeding Up.

The race soon adjusts itself to new conditions as they arise and we don't suppose the young mothers of the present day are one jot or tittle more worried when their children are out playing in the street than their own mothers were in like circumstances, with the horses and buggies recklessly dashing past all the time at seven or eight miles an hour.—Ohio State Journal.

TRIALS OF A SCHOOLMA'AM

Some Weird Answers Are Given by Pupils in Final Examinations
After Year of Training.

I was proud of a very few of the little tots—and very proud. But from older children, in final examinations, after a year of my training, I got such answers as these. A member of the history class informed me that General Lee was the commander of "our" (the northern) side during the great Civil war; and that Cornwallis Jackson commanded on the other side. Another member of the same class suggested the name of "General Wolves"—apparently for both positions. A great statesman's career was thus epitomized: "Benjamin Franklin was a poor boy. He went barefooted. He got married to Dora." I was informed that Massachusetts was the first settlement in North America, and that Captain Cabbot helped the town. And when I requested a little information regarding General Sherman, I found out simply that he had once "taken a walk to the ocean." In geography Urazy and Yourp were mentioned as continents and Virginia was named as "an important western city." From the language class I gathered that a "noun is a table or a chair or a house," and I also learned that, while the subject of a sentence is what you are talking about, the predicate is what you are not talking about!—Laura T. Kent, in Atlantic.

MIGHT CHANGE

"I know I'm not half good enough for you, darling."
"Well, I'll marry you if you'll promise to maintain that same attitude after we're married."

VALUABLE RELICS.

A coat of mail worn by Count Lorenzo de Aldana in campaigns against the Incas when he served with Pizarro in the conquest of Peru, brought $360 the other day at a sale in the Anderson galleries, New York. One of the lieutenants of Aldana was an Alvarado, to whom he presented the coat when he passed through Quito on his way back to Spain, late in the sixteenth century. The Alvarado family remained in Ecuador and for more than three centuries collected potteries and other products of the Inca and pre-Inca periods, which brought at auction in the last week $11,882.

DEMOCRATIC.

"What sort of a man is Dick?"
"Awfully democratic."
"How's that?"
"He'll borrow money from anyone."

GETTING IT OVER WITH.

He—Didn't she marry rather young?
She—I know, but a fortune teller said her second marriage would be a dream.—Judge.

AT THE MILITARY PARADE.

He (a store clerk)—Why doesn't the line stand at attention?
She (a telephone girl)—I suppose, because the line is busy.

SAFE NOW.

Bess—Why, do you know, he calls on me oftener than he did before I refused to marry him.
Jess—The coward.—Judge.

WILL COME TOO SOON.

"How do you want your hair cut, Bub?" asked the barber.
"Say, if you kin, I wisht you'd cut it gray like father's," said Bub.

HIGH COST OF LIVING.

The cat—Nice muzzle you're wearing, Sport. Cost much?
The Dog (eagerly)—About five bones a day!—Life.

Heads of Sunday School Union.

The presidents of the Sunday School Union have been prominent men. Among them have been John McLean, justice of the United States Supreme court; Francis Scott Key, author of "The Star Spangled Banner;" Henry Clay Trumbull, editor and writer on religious education, and Morris K. Jessup of the New York chamber of commerce.

Sneer at Matrimony.

Many a husband thinks if he should die his wife would never get another like him. And many a wife hopes so. —Exchange.

Took Her Down a Peg.

One of the anecdotes in Gamaliel Bradford's "Portraits of Women" describes an encounter between George Ticknor, the Boston publisher, and Lady Holland. "I understand, Mr. Ticknor," said the haughty ruler of London society, "that New England was originally settled by convicts." "I was not aware of that," Ticknor replied promptly. "but I know that some of the Yussalls, your ancestors, were early settlers in Massachusetts."

Successful Appeal.

Judge—"Was that young Mr. Smith I saw leaving the house as I entered?" Daughter—"Yes, papa." Judge—"And didn't I prohibit him coming here any more?" Daughter—"Yes, papa, but he appealed to a higher court, and mamma has removed the injunction."

The License Record.

The girl who participated in taking out three marriage licenses in one week still has something to learn from the young man who obtained a marriage, hunting and dog license all in one day.—Rochester Post-Express.

No Car Builder.

"Have you the time, sir? I want to make a train," said the guileless young thing. "Oh, yes. I have quite sufficient time," responded Cholly Sawtermush, "but I shouldn't know how to make a blooming sled, much less a railroad train."

About Seals.

That the seal is a typical marine animal is well known. Hence, the occurrence of a species of phoca in Lake Baikal, southern Siberia, which is of fresh water and has no connection with the sea, is of special interest. Recently Dr. Charles Hoxby has obtained skins and skulls of two specimens of the Baikal seal which have been offered to the Museum of Natural History, where the species has not hitherto been represented. It is the only seal which habitually lives in fresh water, though the common seal will often resort to estuaries, and even ascend the Trent, as far up as Hazel ford, where it has been shot. The Vi-lare seal again, common in the Arctic regions, and also found in the north of the Baltic, occurs in Lakes Ladoga and Onega. It is able, however, to reach these from the Baltic by means of the rivers Neva and Svir.

JAPANESE ARE RESOURCEFUL

Emperor's Guards, While Enforcing Orders, Are Careful Not to Offend Revenue-Producing Tourists.

Down through the valley runs a sparkling river. Up the river a short distance is a place where there are a hundred images and one whirlpool. I started out to see the whirlpool. After walking a little way I met a soldier, who addressed certain words to me. I knew that he was trying to dissuade me from what was for the moment my favorite walk. But I am unable to speak or understand Japanese, and I told him so in English, and started on, says a writer in the Christian Herald.

But the Japanese are a resourceful people. Tourists at Nikko pay well and must not be offended, but they must obey. Out of his pocket he drew a paper which caused me to bow, apologize and stop and talk. It read, "The emperor is taking a walk over there. Please return." All that foresight to protect the emperor from prying eyes and the visitor from inconvenient enforcement of order.

FICTION MORE VIRILE TODAY.

The literary editor of the New York Times thinks he discovers a new complexion in the novels of today. He says they are different in theme, different in atmosphere, from those that were written before the war, and adds: "The morbid, the story that hangs on some involved psychological theory—seems to have been done away with. Novelists today are furnishing us with books that have an absorbing plot interest, or that are based on some striking theme in history, or that command attention by their realistic interpretation of life and its twentieth century problems. In other words, our fiction is becoming more virile, more alive to the demand of the reader for a book that will lift him up into a world of the imagination that is at once entertaining and filled with robust realities."

NOT VERY SWIFT.

Drill Sergeant—I say, Smith, have you any idea how slow and stupid you are?

Private Smith—I don't know. Drill Sergeant—Of course you don't; but let me tell you that an Egyptian mummy is frisky compared to you!

ECONOMY.

"There is one item one can save in summer at the seaside."

"What might it be?"

"The wash upon the shore."

Did Not Know the Rutabagas. She was not acquainted with the Swedish turnip, known as rutabaga, sold by the street vendors in the Northwest. When she answered the doorbell and found a stalwart Swede repeating with rising inflection "Rutabaga!" she replied sweetly: "No, sir; Lindhart. I am Mrs. Lindhart, and I do not know the family."

William McKinley and Grover Cleveland Complimented Brooks' Band

A GREAT band. Your concert greatly appreciated" is what William McKinley said after hearing Brooks' Band, Oct. 2, 1896. President and Mrs. Cleveland also tendered unsolicited compliments to Mr. Brooks during their sojourn at the famous Hotel Ponce de Leon, St. Augustine, Fla., Brooks' Band was playing at the time.

The old Chicago Times Herald said more than twenty years ago, "Ellis Brooks is the equal of Sousa as a conductor." The New York World once said, "Brooks' Band has been the most attractive feature of Nantasket's summer entertainments." The Minneapolis Journal: "The greatest organization that has ever visited Minneapolis and one of the greatest in the world." And the Minneapolis Tribune: "Brooks' Second Regimental Band is an organization that has never been excelled by any of its kind in Minneapolis." The Louisville Courier-Journal: "Mayor Tyler says that Brooks is the equal of Sousa in his opinion, and we think he is right." The Cincinnati Enquirer: "The band led by Ellis Brooks is one of the best in the country." Mr. Brooks is also a composer. John Philip Sousa, Victor Herbert and the Boston Symphony Orchestra have played his compositions and on occasions have had Mr. Brooks present and personally conduct those organizations in his own compositions. Brooks and his band give two concerts here the fifth day of the Chautauqua.

Qualified Praise.

"Well," said Langton, self-complacently, as he finished his first after-dinner speech, "you didn't think I could speak, did you?" "I confess," replied his friend, "that I can't think of anything so marvelous that has happened for years. Not since Balaam's time, in fact."—Harper's Magazine.

Frankly Selfish.

We know one thoughtful grandmother who frankly admits that she spoils the baby at every possible opportunity, explaining in her philosophical way that she knows perfectly well she'll get the blame for it anyway and might as well have the fun of doing it. —Columbus (Ohio) Journal.

Never Rains but It Pours.

A New Hampshire man ran a mile to catch a train, lost one rubber in transit, in his excitement swallowed a chew of tobacco, and, because his gait was unsteady, wound up by being arrested on a charge of intoxication. That's what we call a run of hard luck.—Buffalo Times.

Waste No Food

Food Waste of About 700 Million Dollars.

"For partial immediate relief, every individual and community should consider earnestly the matter of food conservation and the limitation of waste. As a Nation we seem to have a disdain of economizing. In many homes there is a strong feeling that it is 'only decent' to provide more than will be eaten and that it is demeaning to reckon closely. The experts of the Department of Agriculture report to me that the dietary studies made by them point to an annual food waste of about $700,000,000. Of course, the waste in families of very limited means is slight, but in the families of moderate and ample means the waste is considerable. Even if the estimate were reduced by half, the waste would still be enormous.

"The food waste in the household, the experts assert, results in large measure from bad preparation and bad cooking, from improper care and handling, and, in well-to-do families, from serving an undue number of courses and an over-abundant supply and failing to save and utilize the food not consumed. As an instance of improper handling, it is discovered that in the preparation of potatoes 20 per cent of the edible portion in many cases is discarded."—SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE, March 3, 1917.

Food is Wasted

(a) When we eat more food than our bodies need for growth and repair and to supply energy for our work. Overeating tends to poor health and fat instead of brawn, makes us sluggish and indolent instead of energetic and resourceful. Eat enough and no more. Eat for physical and mental efficiency.

(b) When food is burned or spoiled in cooking. Improperly prepared or poorly seasoned food will be left on the table and probably wasted. Buy food wisely and then prepare it carefully.

(c) When too much food is prepared for a meal. Unserved portions are apt to be thrown into the garbage pail or allowed to spoil. Many housekeepers do not know how to use left-over foods to make appetizing dishes.

(d) When too much food is served at a meal. Uneaten portions are left on the plate and later thrown into the garbage pail. Learn to know the needs of your family, and serve each no more than you think he will want.

(e) When anything edible is allowed to go to the garbage pail or allowed to spoil for lack of proper handling.

(f) When food is handled carelessly. Buy clean food, keep it clean until used, be neat in all details of cooking and serving. This lessens waste and is a valuable health measure as well.

These are world-shaking affairs, in which the United States, willing or unwilling, is compelled to take a part. No intelligent person can ignore such issues.

Kitten Puts Out Fire.

John is only a black and white kitten of nondescript breed, but if there is such a thing as a medal for bravery, he certainly has claim upon it. One morning I was sitting before the fireplace, watching John as he lay on a hassock on the opposite side, apparently asleep, but he was far from it. We were burning some old trash in the fireplace, and suddenly, with a report like that of a pistol shot, a cinder about as large as a dime came flying through the air and alighted in a basket used by John as a sleeping place. This basket was lined with a woolen cloth and the cinder began to smolder and an incipient fire was at once under way. John, giving the call of the cat tribe, pounced on the blazing cloth, trampled it out with his fore feet, and then, when he was satisfied it was extinguished, quietly curled up and went to sleep, just as though he had not done a thing that was a wonderful exhibition of feline sense.—Our Dumb Animals.

No Use!

"Why don't you yawn when he stays too long?" inquired the mother. "Then he'll take the hint and go." "I did that very thing," confessed the daughter, "and he told me what beautiful teeth I had."

President Issues a Proclamation Putting Selective Draft Into Effect

Washington.—President Wilson's proclamation, putting into effect the selective draft provision of the war army bill, follows:

A Proclamation By the President of the United States.

Whereas, Congress has enacted and the president has, on the 18th day of May, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, approved a law which contains the following provisions:

Section 5.—That all male persons between the ages of 21 and 30, both inclusive, shall be subject to registration in accordance with regulations to be prescribed by the president; and upon proclamation by the president or other public notice given by him or by his direction, stating the time and place of such registration, it shall be the duty of all persons of designated ages, except officers and enlisted men of the regular army, the navy and the national guard and naval militia while in the service of the United States, to present themselves for and submit to registration under the provisions of this act; and every such person shall be deemed to have notice of the requirements of this act upon the publication of said proclamation or other notice as aforesaid given by the president, or by his direction; and any persons who shall willfully fail or refuse to present himself for registration or to submit thereto as herein provided, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall, upon conviction in the district court of the United States having jurisdiction thereof, be punished by imprisonment for not more than one year, and shall thereupon be duly registered.

Provided, That in the call of the docket precedence shall be given, in the courts trying the same, to the trial of criminal proceedings under this act.

Provided, further, That persons shall be subject to registration as herein provided, who shall have attained their twenty-first birthday and who shall not have attained their thirty-first birthday on or before the day set for registration, and all persons so registered shall be and remain subject to draft into the forces hereby authorized; unless exempted or excused therefrom as in this act provided.

Provided, further, That in the case of temporary absence from actual place of legal residence of any person liable to registration as provided herein, such registration may be made by mail under registrations to be prescribed by the president.

Frauds Provided Against.

Section 6.—That the president is hereby authorized to utilize the service of any or all departments and any or all officers or agents of the United States and of the several states, territories, and the District of Columbia, and subdivisions thereof, in the execution of this act, and all officers and agents of the United States and of the several states, territories and subdivisions thereof, and of the District of Columbia, and all persons designated or appointed under registration prescribed by the president, whether such appointments are made by the president himself or by the governor or other officer of any state or territory to perform any duty in the execution of this act, are hereby required to perform such duty as the president shall order or direct, and all such officers and agents and persons so designated or appointed shall hereby have full authority for all acts done by them in the execution of this act by the direction of the president.

Correspondence in the execution of this act may be carried in penalty envelopes bearing the frank of the war department. Any persons charged as herein provided with the duty of carrying into effect any of the provisions of the act or the regulations made or directions given thereunder who shall fail or neglect to perform such duty, and any person charged with such duty, or having and exercising any authority under said act, regulations or directions, who shall knowingly make or be a party to the making of any false or incorrect registration, physical examination, exemption, enlistment, enrollment, or muster; and any person who shall make or be a party to the making of any false statement or certificate as to the fitness or liability of himself or any other person for service under the provisions of this act, or regulations made by the president thereunder, or otherwise evades or aids another to evade the requirements of this act, or of said regulations, or who, in any manner, shall fail or neglect fully to perform any duty required of him in the execution of this act, shall, if not subject to military law, be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction in the district court of the United States having jurisdiction thereof, be punished by imprisonment for not more than one year; or, if subject to military law, shall be tried by court martial and suffer such punishment as a court-martial may direct.

Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States, do call upon the governor of each of the several states and territories, the board of commissioners of the District of Columbia and all officers and agents of the several states and territories, of the District of Columbia, and of the counties and municipalities therein, to perform certain duties in the execution of the foregoing law, which duties will be communicated to them directly in regulations of even date herewith.

June 5 To Be Registration Day.

And I do further proclaim and give notice to all persons subject to registration in the several states and in the District of Columbia in accordance with the above law, that the time and place of such registration shall be between 7 a.m. and 9 p.m. on the 5th day of June, 1917, at the registration places in the precinct wherein they have their permanent homes. Those who shall have attained their twenty-first birthday, and who shall not have attained their thirty-first birthday on or before the day here named, are required to register, excepting only officers and enlisted men of the regular army, the navy, the marine corps, and the national guard, and naval militia while in the service of the United States, and officers in the officers' reserve corps and enlisted men in the enlisted reserve corps while in active service. In the territories of Alaska, Hawaii and Porto Rico a day for registration will be named in a later proclamation.

And I do charge those who through sickness shall be unable to present themselves for registration, that they apply on or before the day of registration to the county clerk where they may be for instructions as to how they may be registered by agents. Those who expect to be absent on the day named from the counties in which they have their permanent homes, may register by mail, but their mailed registration cards must reach the place in which they have their permanent homes by the day named herein. They should apply as soon as practicable to the county clerk of the county wherein they may be for instructions as to how they may accomplish their registration by mail.

In case such persons as, through sickness, or absence, may be unable to present themselves personally for registration shall be sojourning in cities of over 30,000 population, they shall apply to the city clerk of the city wherein they may be sojourning rather than to the clerk of the county. The clerks of counties and of cities of over 30,000 population, in which numerous applications from the sick and from nonresidents are expected, are authorized to establish such subagencies and to employ and deputize such clerical force as may be necessary to accommodate these applications.

The power against which we are arrayed has sought to impose its will upon the world by force. To this end it has increased armament until it has changed the face of war. In the sense in which we have been wont to think of armies there are no armies in this struggle. There are entire nations armed. Thus the men who remain to till the soil and man the factories are no less a part of the army that is in France than the men beneath the battle flags. It must be so with us. It is not an army that we must shape and train for war; it is a nation.

To this end our people must draw close in one compact front against a common foe. But this cannot be if each man pursues a private purpose. All must pursue one purpose. The nation needs all men, but it needs each man, not in the field that will most please him, but in the endeavor that will best serve the common good. Thus, though a sharpshooter pleases to operate a trip hammer for the forging of great guns, and an expert machinist desires to march with the flag, the nation is being served only when the sharpshooter marches and the machinist remains at his levers. The whole nation must be a team in which each man shall play the part for which he is best fitted. To this end Congress has provided that the nation shall be organized for war by selection, and that each man shall be classified for service in the place to which it shall best serve the general good to call him.

The significance of this cannot be overstated. It is a new thing in our history and a landmark in our progress. It is a new manner of accepting and vitalizing our duty to give ourselves with thoughtful devotion to the common purpose of us all. It is in no sense a conscription of the unwilling; it is rather, selection from a nation which has volunteered in mass. It is no more a choosing of those who shall march with the colors than it is a selection of those who shall serve an equally necessary and devoted purpose in the industries that lie behind the battle line.

The day here named is the time upon which all shall present themselves for assignment to their tasks. It is for that reason, destined to be remembered as one of the most conspicuous moments in our history. It is nothing less than the day upon which the manhood of the country shall step forward in one solid rank in defense of the ideals to which this nation is consecrated. It is important to those ideals no less than to the pride of this generation in manifesting its devotion to them that there be no gaps in the ranks.

It is essential that the day be approached in thoughtful apprehension of its significance and that we accord to it the honor and the meaning that it deserves. Our industrial need prescribes that it be not made a technical holiday, but the stern sacrifice that is before us urges that it be carried in all our hearts as a great day of patriotic devotion and obligation, when the duty shall lie upon every man, whether he is himself to be registered or not, to see to it that the name of every male person of the designated age is written on these lists of honor.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington, this 18th day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and forty-first.

ROBERT LANSING, Secretary of State. BY THE PRESIDENT.

FIRST TO SERVE ICE CREAM

Dolly Madison Introduced Popular Dessert in United States, But It Was Made Earlier in London.

Ice cream was certainly first served in the United States by Dolly Madison, the wife of President Madison, and it has often been said that she invented the popular dessert. A writer in the Illustrated World, however, says that the first ice cream was made by Gunton, a London confectioner. But Gunton's method of freezing was crude and uncertain and it remained for Nancy Johnson, the wife of an American naval officer, to invent the ice cream freezer.

The ice cream business has far outgrown the small hand freezer. Vast quantities are frozen by special machinery. The industry has become so great that fortunes have been made out of it. Last year, according to the Indianapolis News, the American people consumed 250,000,000 gallons, which, figured at only a dollar and a quarter a gallon, means a business of more than $300,000,000.—Youth's Companion.

Morning Glories.

Wild morning glories, like the lilies of the field, "toll not, neither do they spin." But though arrayed like Solomon, they are not sought after for landscape decoration. In the plant kingdom they are military oppressors, ousting every other aspirant for vegetable honors from every acre where they obtain a footing. Hence has sprung a strange lawsuit between two wealthy ranchers in Santa Barbara county, the one accusing the other of having seeded his land to these radiant but hostile flowers.—Los Angeles Times.

Applied Economics.

"My son, there is a good thrashing in store for you when we get home," snarled the angry professor. "Have a heart, dad," pleaded the young image and likeness. "This is a case where the supply exceeds the demand."

Remarkable Tibetan Building.

"The only building in Lhasa (Tibet) that is at all imposing is the Potala," writes Edmund Candler. "It is not a palace on a hill, but a hill—that is also a palace. Its massive walls, its terraces and bastions stretch upward from the plain to the crest as if the great bluff rock were merely a foundation stone planted there."

India's Hoarded Treasure.

The "hoarded treasure" of India is estimated by the Financial Review at over £400,000,000. Most of this is believed to be hidden in comparatively small sums. It is a financial axiom in London that all the gold and silver which is sent to India annually by the British government is immediately absorbed and passes quickly out of circulation. In India, however, the existence of any really important hidden wealth is declared a myth.

Eating With Fingers.

In ancient times among Orientals, as is largely the custom in those lands
today, each person handled his food with his fingers. Each person broke off a small piece of bread, dipped it in the dish and then conveyed it to his mouth with a small piece of the meat or other contents of the dish. To pick out a delicate morsel and hand it to a friend or guest, perhaps to clap it into his mouth, is today in Afghanistan, in Persia, and in some other countries, esteemed a compliment, and to refuse such an offering is contrary to good manners.

PURELY PERSONAL.

Mrs. F. C. Hille has returned from Oxford, Ala., where she was summoned by the illness of her daughter, Mrs. R. S. King. The latter is somewhat improved and is now in a hospital at Oxford.

Miss Evelyn Perkins has gone to Louisville to visit her sister, Miss Kathleen Perkins, and Mrs. T. G.
Hiser.

Mrs. Annie K. Johnson has returned home, after a visit of several weeks to friends and relatives at Memphis and Rutherford, Tenn.

W. H. Cummings, Jr., left yesterday for New York to visit his parents. He recently failed to pass the examination for the officers' reserve corps and may enlist in the New York State guards, to which he formerly belonged.

Miss Bessie Pickering, of Clarksville, is visiting Mrs. Irving Rosebor-ough.

Capt. E. W. Clark and Brockman
Mason, of Co. L., left in their car for Lexington, Thursday.

Mrs. Phil Thompson and children, of Cadiz, are visiting Mrs. I. G. Sallee.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Anderson and children and Mrs. Bandy, left Tuesday for Tate Springs for the summer.

W. O. Soyars, one of Hopkinsville's soldier boys at Fort Harrison, writes that he is in the hospital from a strained muscle and a spell of indigestion. He, Churchill Blakley and Robt. Wright are together in the 6th
Co., 9th Div., F. Barracks. The other boys are in different companies.

Lee J. Barbee, of Falls Mills, Va., is visiting his brother, W. W. Barbee, at Oak Grove.

Miss Elizabeth Mason has returned from an extended visit to friends in Texas.

Mrs. J. H. Brown, after a visit to friends at Central City and other places, returned home Thursday.

Mrs. Alvan H. Clark left with Lieut. Clark, Tuesday, going as far as Louisville.

Howe Wallace has resigned his place with the J. H. Anderson Co., and gone to Detroit, Mich., to accept a position with a big shoe house. He began work Monday.

Beekkeepers Can Help Win The War.

The beekkeepers of Kentucky must help in the present food crisis by producing more honey. The nectar of plants not collected by the bees is a total loss and that collected for honey is clear profit. The sugar situation of the county is becoming acute—honey must be used in its place. The beekeepers can this year increase the future demand for honey by producing more than usual. The prices will be good as asserted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Control your swarming by giving plenty of room for the bees to work. Buckwheat makes a good fall pasture for bees.
Sweet and white clover will soon be in blossom, and they are two of our best honey producers. Tend your bees at once and take advantage of the opportunity of larger yields before it is too late.

New Source of Potash.

Attention is being directed in South Africa to the possibilities of the "looq ash," which is the ash of an alkali
bush (Mesembrianthemum junceum)
that grows extensively in many parts of the Karroo. This product has long been known to be rich in potash (among other substances), and recent analyses show that in its potash content alone its manurial value is about double the normal price of kainit. The ash also contains materials used in soap-making.

Force of Habit.

"Habit," remarked Blinkers, "is a strange thing. Last night I was awakened by a blind which kept banging against the side of the house. Jumping out of bed, I ran over to the window and raised the sash, only to learn that the fastening was broken. There was no twine handy, but I managed, after a while, to secure the shutter with my necktie. This morning when I went to get my tie to put on, I found it hadn't it tied into a four-in-hand!"

The Real Book Lover.

Here is the definition of a book lover
given by the librarian of Brown university: "The book lover is distinguished from the reader as such by loving his books, and from the collector
as such by reading them. He prizes not only the soul of the book, but also its body which he would make a house beautiful, meet for the indwelling of the spirit given by its author. Love is not too strong a word to apply to his regard, which demands,
in the language of Dorothy Wordsworth, 'a beautiful book, a book to caress—peculiar, distinctive, individual.'"

Pre-Shrunk Wash Skirts

Why Shouldn't a Woman Be Able to Get
Wash Skirts that are Really
Pre-Shrunk?

In the whole realm of fashion, nothing so typifies the wholesomeness and freedom of the real American girl as Sport Clothes.

Her wonderful grace, her buoyant spirit finds expression in this charming way.

Just five years ago The H. Black Co., Tailors, of New York and Cleveland, invented the pre-shrinking of wash skirts. The young women of this country needed this advance step.

Within three years women everywhere had convinced the retail merchants that they appreciated
these pre-shrunk skirts.

A good and successful idea always brings imitation. But the Wooltex pre-shrinking process for ash skirts is too thorough to be used by any maker less sincere and reputable than The H. Black Company

The original pre-shrunk wash skirts made for us and guaranteed by The H. Black Company are on sale in this store now.
